Waikato Branch of The Royal School of Church Music of New Zealand
Based in Britain, The R.S.C.M was begun in the 1930's to enhance the skill of Church musicians in ordinary parishes, some of who were struggling to survive musically with their available amateur musicians. Workshops and school, both locally held or at headquarters, weekends or weeks, were able to raise standards considerably, after using Cathedral organists/choirs to help, as we in New Zealand still do in 2005.
