Further to your information request of 27 April 2019 in respect of BRANZ wind zone map, I am now able to provide Hamilton City Council's response.

You requested:

Please provide a statement of how the decision was made to determine the wind zone of 75 Dey Street using the BRANZ wind zone map.

Our response:

The wind zone of the property in question was calculated using HCC GIS data and BRANZ maps in accordance with the requirements in NZS 3604. In this case HCC GIS data classified the property as bisected between a medium and low wind zone. The BRANZ map classifies the property as medium as shown in the table below.

Based on a specific NZS 3604 calculation the following assessment was also determined, the site is adjacent to fields and doesn't have 2 rows of similarly sized permanent obstructions all around as a 2 level building, the site is also in a 'Open terrain' as it is within 500m of an area containing no more than 10 obstructions per ha. This confirms a minimum of a medium wind zone.
